This week, the NCD Alliance team is in Vancouver for the Women Deliver [1] conference, which brings together over 8,000 advocates from more than 160 countries to discuss gender equality and the health and rights of girls and women.

Together with HelpAge International and FIGO (International Federation of Gynecology and Obstetrics), the NCD Alliance is hosting three sessions focused on NCDs, mental health, and ensuring quality of care throughout the lifecycle.

Each of these interactive sessions will highlight the need for a lifecycle approach to ensure women and girls have access to the promotive, preventive, curative, rehabilitative, and palliative quality services and care they require.

Additionally, the Women and NCDs Taskforce will be convening three youth leaders at lunchtime on Wednesday 5 June at their booth in the exhibition hall in an "Ask Me Anything" session, where participants are invited to interact with these dynamic young leaders.

If you would like to follow the discussions remotely, many sessions will be webcast via WomenDeliver live [2], including the NCD Alliance's session on Tuesday 4 June.

The poster features a teal background with stylized line art of diverse women's faces. The main title 'JOIN US AT WOMEN DELIVER!' is in large, bold, yellow and white letters. Below it, a paragraph invites attendees to join HelpAge International, FIGO, and the NCD Alliance to learn about NCDs and mental health. A box on the left provides contact information. Two white boxes on the right list the conference schedule for Tuesday and Wednesday. The bottom of the poster contains logos for HelpAge International, FIGO, NCD Alliance, and the 10th anniversary of the UHC, along with social media handles and hashtags.
